"Siulam is one of the best medical educators I've ever been able to learn from. He put in so much effort to ensure that students have the best experience possible during their rotations. What I especially appreciated was that he would always inform me of any updates he received on a patient I might be following.

He was also someone I could always ask questions of, and he was not only supportive but extremely excited to answer any questions I had. He explained everything really well, adapting his answers based on my previous understanding of the material. Then, he had one of the most helpful conversations where he gave me feedback on how my month went and how to take the next step, which turned out to be exactly what I needed for my next AI. Even after my rotation ended, he remained someone who was always eager to provide advice on an array of topics in PM&R... He's a huge role model of mine, and in the future, I hope I might be as amazing of a clinical educator as he has been."
